

State School Head Proposes Plan For Emergency Studies

County Heads To Work With State Superin-

Superintendent English

Tallahassee, June 20—School officials and teachers of Florida were called upon today by State Superintendent Colin English to prepare plans this summer for guidance of senior high school boys in this time of national emergency.

The first step, English said, is for every person who has any responsibility today in high school education to analyze carefully the meaning of the present world upheaval for the 6,000 boys who will graduate from our schools next May and June.

"Parents, teachers, and school officials must unite as never before in helping these boys become physically strong and, equipped with the understandings and atti-

Every boy is thinking seriously today of his place in the life of our technological age. The emergence has brought industry, aviation, military service, agriculture, and in all the ways of life which increase directly the strength of the nation for purposes of national defense. It is a time for every citizen to consider the true value of his own services from the viewpoint of common welfare and national efficiency," English said.

The State Superintendent and two members of his staff have returned from Washington with plans for use of vocational and technical schools in the defense program, and for preparation of instructional materials to assist high school teachers and pupils in science, mathematics, and manual arts classes. Plans have been made with the assistance of officials in the National Office of Education, the Civil Aeronautics Authority, and the National Youth Administration, with the cooperation of

The Florida Association of County Superintendents, at its annual convention in Daytona Beach this week, voted unanimously to sponsor the program. They urged teachers to join this summer in planning instructional materials. Teachers who can volunteer services for a few weeks are asked to write the State Superintendent in Tallahassee.

Instructional units will be prepared in the various subject-matter fields in collaboration with military and technical experts. Emphasis will be placed on giving junior boys in science classes an Understanding of the application of their studies concerning natural forces, expanding gasses, electricity, chemistry, etc., as they relate to power plants, airplanes, gunnery, mechanical construction, machine operation, and radio and telephone communication. Health and camp sanitation will also be featured. Geometry and trigonometry courses will make practical application of mathematical principles formulas' to problems, in navigation, range finding and mechanical construction. Classes in mechanical drawing and school shop will be provided opportunity to apply their work to problems such as an airplane repair and machine shops, including such subjects as wing construction, metal sheetmetal working, blueprinting, wiring, radio repair, and instrument reading and repair. Out-of-class clubs will be encouraged whenever a group of boys

Hail and Farewell

Big sensation in after-primary Florida was the summary discharge of Arthur Hale, state road chairman, by Fred P. Cone, governor and badly defeated candidate for the United States senate. Headline readers and political cynics saw in this move only the pique of an angry old man who used a 31-year-old signed undated resignation to vent his spite on an ungrateful appointee.

The real facts behind the incident might as well be known, particularly as they show Fred Preston Cone as a ruggedly honest and non-political individualist.

In the heat of the first primary Cone promised Pinellas county completion of the Gulf Coast highway during the remaining 7 months of his administration as governor. The public took this as a direct bid for votes for United States senate—which it was, frankly admitted to be. Cone ran fourth in a 6-man race. Skeptics advised Pinellas to put their highway dreams in moth balls for the balance of the year.

But Pinellas gave Cone one of his heaviest votes percentage-wise in the entire state. This in spite of the fact that Cone started his administration by firing Pinellas county, particularly St. Petersburg. From which town he has never made a major appointment. On the Hillsborough hand he showered literally dozens of appointments with Arthur Hale as road chairman drawing the principal plum. In the Hillsborough gave Cone only a trifling more votes than Pinellas in spite of more than double the registration. With stark plainness the Hale, Whitehair, Chance, Tillman, Dupree crowd had shown their preference in their desperate single-shot gamble. Winner, Take-All on Whitehair.

It was an ideal situation—punish Hillsborough, keep his word with Pinellas all at one shot. The Old Man pulled the trigger, publicly issued orders to his new road department to immediately build 12 miles of the 26-mile gap of the Gulf Coast highway. Out the window went the Hale middle-route free bridge as there ensued a wild scramble from Monroe to North Main street in Jax to adjust ballast, avoid road and political cap-sizing from the sudden hurricane.

Rumor mill at Tallahassee has the heads of Bill Taylor, hotel commissioner, the state patrol commander, a half dozen others, practically rolling in the streets. Wild rumors even include a special session of the legislature—which is nuts as this corner sees it.

Meanwhile, Fred Preston Cone will be GOVERNOR for 7 months and most not prepared to like it better duck—Fuller's Florida Letter.

One Year Ago

Often when we are desperately worried, someone will musingly say, "Let's see, what was it that looked like the end of the world to you last year about this time, or say, ten years ago?" Having never noticed how often you reached them, crossed bridges you never did actually reach? Have you ever noticed that the worries you thought were justified in other years turned out to be needless? There really isn't any sense in trying to do more than to live everyday as wisely and as happily as you can, taking thought for the morrow sanely, but without fear.

We've been thinking of advice like that today when we recall that exactly one year ago King George and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain crossed the international boundary to Niagara Falls where they were greeted by Secretary of State Hull before they entrained for Washington for their fine visit in this country.

Just one year ago today, And just one year ago yesterday in Berlin, 15,000 Germans from Spain—the Condor Legion—before Chancellor Hitler and assembled German troops, marched through 15,000 men who had been going through the training that made them into the efficient soldiers that in the last two months made possible the devastating invasions by Hitler's forces.

Just one year ago today, What will we be using for contrast on June 7, 1941? One year ago, Poland, Denmark, Norway, Finland, Belgium, Holland were lands of peaceful, industrious people.

And just one year hence, what will we be writing?—Melbourne Times.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay

The effort of the American Legion to interest our youth in the importance and value of good citizenship is laudable and most week in the neighborhood of two hundred boys will assemble in Tallahassee to learn first hand the functions of state government.

From among their number these boys will elect a Governor and a Cabinet. Others will serve as Senators and Representatives, and the Governor will appoint Department Heads. For one week these boys will play "State" under the manner of little girls playing "house."

It is a splendid idea and should be enlarged upon. The social welfare of our state depends upon our ability to interest youth in government affairs.

While these eager young men may gain some conception of how government is supposed to run, and during their week's stay in Tallahassee may learn a few of the fundamentals, it is very doubtful if they get far enough behind the scenes in so limited a time as to actually acquire themselves with what really does go on.

It will be interesting to note what our boy Governor will do with the patronage at his disposal. Being limited in the selection of personnel to only the boys in the group, he will be able to do much for his relatives. It should be explained to him, however, that in appointing department heads he should not first consider relatives to those who contributed to his campaign.

The boys who make up the Legislature will have some pretty stiff problems to face if they try to tackle the job that presents itself today. One striking provision of this educational effort is the fact that no apparent provision has been made for "lobbyists." A lobbyist without a flock of trained and experienced lobbyists to tell 'em what to do. And it will be interesting to note what the Boy Legislature will do about attacks. No doubt all of them have girl friends at home, and if their education is to be complete they should be permitted to take care of 'em with $3 a day jobs, even if the party will cover just a few dollars.

It is assumed that the young man who wins the title of Governor will have promised to see that the "old folks" are adequately provided for; he will be obligated to build several four-lane highways; operate our schools on a full nine months basis; exercise strict economy and reduce taxes. He'll have just about as much chance of doing these things in a "week" as the sure-enough Governor has of doing them in four years.

The in between writing his message to the Legislature, deciding public buildings and issuing proclamations as Governor, he'll be called upon to attend meetings of the Commission of State Institutions, the State Board of Education, the State Board of Pensions, the Board of Administration, the Board of Internal Improvement, the Board of the Army, the Board of the Vocational Education, the State Agricultural Board, the State Agricultural

Board, the State Agricultural

Board, the State Agricultural

Board, the State Agricultural

Board, the State Agricultural

Board, the State Agricultural

Board, the State Agricultural

Board, the State Agricultural

Board, the State Agricultural

Marketing Board, and a few others. In addition to all that he will naturally be expected to have time to sit and visit with those friends and supporters whom he eagerly invited to "come and see me in Tallahassee". On top of that he'll have several secretaries who will do their best to make as much of the load off him as possible, but no matter how able and efficient they may be, there are always "answers" that the Governor alone can give and no matter how weak and weary he may be there are times when "Mr. Big" insists upon seeing him, and DOES.

I realize that if the dose of Governorship dished onto the man as strong as I've pictured it, the poor kid will either be "nuts" or develop an executive capacity that is almost super human. In any event, it should cure him for all times of anxiety to actually BE Governor.

Anyhow, the idea of training 'em in advance is a mighty good one, for if more guys realized what being a Governor really meant, we probably wouldn't have so many of 'em runnin' every four years.

Webster College at Babson Park will hold its thirteenth graduation Thursday evening, May 9th. Twenty-six students, representing fourteen states, will receive diplomas. Miss Harriet Sheretz, A. von Park, was awarded a gold medal for accuracy in the state typing contest held in Deland last Saturday.

FULLER'S FULMINATIONS

by Fuller Warren

A Paradox of Peace
 The horrible paradox that is now making a shambles of Europe brings back memories of the World War. Many dates of the last World War stand out in bold relief, but none with such halcyon of prominence as the day intended, November 11, 1918. On the fifties of time, no such joy has ever killed the hearts of mankind as on that fateful day of November. The celebratory feast that was held on that day were attended by occurrences that had probably never before taken place in all the long history of the human race.

The annals of humanity afford no such, peculiar paradox of peace as that which occurred over in Bloomsbury, November 11, 1918. It has been twenty-two years since this bizarre incident unfolded itself before my startled eyes and my amazed ears, but it made such an indelible impression on me that I remember it as though it had just taken place. If you don't mind, I will tell you about it.

Early on the morning of November 11th, 1918, my brother, Joe, and I crossed the creek in front of our house and were to a neighbor's field to plow in a few acres of soil for him. We were to be paid a dollar a day and dinner for our labor. I assisted Joe by sitting on a rail fence in the shade and told him how well he was getting along with his plowing each time he came to the end of a row. Also, when he got tired, I fetched him a glass of good well-water. We were proceeding in this fashion when along about eleven o'clock we heard a lot of shouting and shouting across the creek in town. At first we thought it was just another of the lynchings that occurred so frequently in this section back in those days. But when the shouting continued for some time, we realized that it was too long and drawn out to be a lynching.

At this point the wife of the man we were working for rushed out into the field and shouted, "The war is ended!" I jumped off the fence, threw my gun and water bucket into the air. Joe left me and plow standing in the middle of the field. We both "lit a rag" for town where all the noise and excitement was going on. We didn't take time to go around by the foot-log to get across the creek to town. We waded right through the creek where the water was about ship high and reached the town on the run.

When we got there the shooting had ceased and all the townspeople were assembled on a vacant lot in front of the bank building to participate in important ceremonies to welcome the return of peace. A two-horse wagon was pulled to the corner of the lot to serve as a rostrum for the dignitaries. Hymn books were hurriedly brought from the two churches and distributed among the crowd. The owner of the drugstore gave a box of lemons and a block of ice, and a barrel of lemons was quickly made.

Everything was going along just lovely until they reached a point where it was necessary to decide who would be selected to make the peace speech. Two of the town's leading citizens, a couple of lawyers, rushed forward and offered themselves. The festivities had been gotten up so hurriedly that no one had been given authority to say what should be done. So there was no person to say which of the two opponents should be allowed to deliver the peace speech. Matters reached an impasse. Neither of the patriots would yield to the other. In an atmosphere surcharged with the sweet sentiments of peace these two wordy warriors began to snarl and snap at each other. Their anger mounted as they argued. One of them had a mouth full of gold and silver-crowned teeth. When his anger rose to a white heat he bared this array of teeth to his opponent and produced a most ferocious aspect.

Finally, when they were just about to snap upon each other with fists and feet, a peace-loving citizen intervened and suggested that both of them make a speech. This was very agreeable to each of them, so they quit quarreling, shook hands, mounted the wagon, and began to deliver the peace speech.

It is my devout hope that the people of America will continue to celebrate that peace brought with the blood of our boys in 1918 and that they shall never again have occasion to welcome the RETURN of peace.

THESE THINGS HAPPENED IN THE LAKE REGION 15 YEARS AGO AND WERE RECORDED BY THE EVERGLADES NEWS

A set of section houses is being built at "Sand Cut" three and a half miles north of Canal Point, for the Florida East Coast railroad by G. C. Cranford, contractor, who started the work last week.

Installation of a bank at Canal Point is certain, an arcade building will be erected this fall, negotiations are under way for the construction of a large modern hotel and many of the lots in the Pioneer Investment Company subdivision have been sold, but Bonham & Magaw, the sales agents for the subdivision are more interested now in getting the construction of streets and sidewalks under way than they are in selling more of the lots, they said when they visited Canal Point, Tuesday.

Frank Lee, the South Bay real estate man, reports that with the exception of possibly a half dozen lots, the entire townsite has been disposed of.

A. Kallenbrunner has made several sale of lots in his subdivision. B. Elliott was agent in some of the late transactions.

A. L. Pope went to West Palm Beach, Friday and brought out a new Ford coupe.

E. G. Kilpatrick, Jr. was elected mayor of Pahokee at the town's annual election Friday, George C.

McLarty and Tom Shepard were elected co-mistresses. About 20 votes were cast. Messrs. Kilpatrick, McLarty, and Shepard getting about 43 each and the rest being scattered.

C. L. Wilder and Dr. D. S. Spooner have formed a partnership to carry on a real estate business under the name of the Upper Glades Realty Company. A store room in the corner of the drug store building will be fitted up as an office.

John Newhouse, for a while clerk at Baker's store, Okelanta walked over from Belle Glade to spend a few days in town on Saturday last.

J. E. Beardsley, a pioneer settler on the southwest shore of Lake Okelchobee, has succumbed to the flu and gone into the real estate business.

The worst thing about the newspaper press not acting properly Thursday was that it prevented the Everglades News force from attending the community picnic that was held at St. Lucie canal. Ladies had extended appreciated invitations and our distress is great that we did not keep the appointments. We are under obligations to Mrs. Adams, however, for a fine lunch that was sent to the office.

Governor Martin has approved an act of the legislature that relates to incorporation of the town of Canal Point but no copy of the law has been received, hence, nothing has been done under the law. It is understood that the act is a referendum provision that is, it cannot become operative until it has been voted on by the residents of the territory laid out as boundaries of the town. The Everglades News has written to the secretary of state for a copy of the law but the copy may not be received for some time because of the accumulation of work in the office of the secretary of state. We wish we could say that sentiment seems to favor incorporation but we cannot find facts to support it; the prospect just now is that incorporation will be voted down.

The Madison Presbyterian Church celebrated its first hundred years of existence and the fiftieth anniversary in the ministry of its pastor, Rev. R. H. Latham, last Sunday at Madison.

Lorraine Day in "My Son, My Son" Pahokee—Sunday & Monday Belle Glade—Tuesday

"MY SON, MY SON"

"My Son, My Son" has a brilliant array of stars in Madeleine Carroll, Brian Aherne and Louis Hayward, a trio which enhances the picture by down-to-earth, unforgettable acting. Others who turn in excellent performances include Henry Hull, one of the best contemporary character actors, Josephine Hutchinson, Lorraine Day, Sophie Stewart and Bruce Lester. With his usual skill for maintaining swift tempo and clear characterization, Charles Vidor has directed "My Son, My Son" with a remarkable sureness of touch and with unsurpassed clarity of insight.

The story of "My Son, My Son" is rich in emotional implications and everyday drama. It concerns a father and a son, and the high hopes that fail to materialize. William Essie's dreams for his son fade into thin air when he realizes that Oliver is a vain and selfish young man, over-sophisticated, insincere and cynical. Oliver realizes almost too late that he has brought misery to the people who have surrounded him with love and understanding.

GREAT STORY "OVER THE MOON" IN TECHNICOLOR

Briefly, the story concerns the adventures and romances of a Yorkshire girl who inherits several million dollars upon the death of her grandfather and proceeds to see how the idle rich live. Her plan is frowned upon by the man to whom she is engaged and he bows out while she goes on to a life of utter frivolity and gaiety in Paris and Monte Carlo. When she encounters a strange young man who is even richer than she is, she realizes the utter futility of her glittering life and she decides to go after the man she really loves. How she wins him back provides the picture with a smash climax.

The story moves with tempo and suspense, with its gay and witty action centered in London, Paris, Monte Carlo and the Swiss Alps.

Luscious Linda might be the descriptive appellation for this study of the lovely new recruit to films. Linda Hayne, who is now appearing as leading lady to Joe Penner in "The Moon" is shown here.

Florida Exhibit Is—

Florida prepared for the newspapers of the United States and Canada. That these pictures are being printed is evidenced by the hundreds of clippings from all over the United States. One picture of "Miss Florida" has brought in 119 clippings from as many newspapers. So far, and there will be more when all the returns are in.

In a number of instances other exhibitors ask that some of the Florida girls be permitted to be photographed in connection with the Florida State Exhibit, and the descriptive text published with them calls attention to the fact that the girls pictured are the Florida State Exhibit.

In other cases they ask permission to have their "beauties" photographed under a palm tree in the Florida tropical garden or standing by an orange or grapefruit tree pretending to be picking fruit in order to get the tropical effect.

This flood of newspaper publicity has a tendency to keep the exhibit in the public eye and make the readers thereof Florida conscious. And, this newspaper publicity is augmented by that received over radio, including television, when taken from the Florida exhibit entertainment station is on the air. The Orange Blossom Quilted, Lotus Cordati-Cornell, Anita Randall, Robert Bowdler, all Floridians are in constant demand by radio program makers who cater to the greater New York public over the 22 radio stations scattered over the Greater New York area.

"The exhibit is getting a world of the best kind of publicity and it is being effected in the wonderful attendance we are having in spite of the rainy weather," said General Manager Brown.

FLYING SCHOOL

Deland, Fla., June 20—Flying and ground school facilities were taxed to the limit at Stetson University last Saturday when more than eighty youths of the central Florida district stampeded the campus hoping to be among the lucky members of the Stetson division of the Civilian Pilot Training Program. Physical exams and flying schedules were rushed to completion all last week in preparation for the official opening of the summer flying course last Saturday.

Dr. R. L. Allen, physics professor, and Larry Schmarke, manager of the Deland Municipal Airport, vied with one another to get their ground and flight school divisions off to a running start. Dr. Allen reports that he has applied to the Federal headquarters for an extension of the original quota of thirty allotted to the Deland institution, the expansion necessitated through the remarkable rush of young men to join the flight training course.

It was noted by officials that only a few of the applicants failed to meet the physical requirements.

Five light-powered planes were already at the Deland field last week awaiting the grueling and constant service they will render during the forthcoming weeks of the summer course. W. R. Peters of Tulsa, Oklahoma, will be flight instructor assisting Manager Schmarke, the latter announced last week.

Moed Botanical Gardens has a rare Oriental orchid which is now blooming in this Orlando show place. Flowers on this plant measure more than eight inches across, petals are of delicate rose in color.

The two Florida high school seniors who write the best essay on "American Democracy" will be given free trips to the nation's historical points of interest by the Florida Congress on Democracy. It was announced recently.

There is not much glory attached to war when gas makes enter the picture.
